BEANS OF THE DEVIL

Rowland Hill once began his sermon by saying: "My friends, the other day I was going down the street, and I saw a drove of pigs following a man. This excited my curiosity so much that I determined to follow. I did so; and, to my great surprise, I saw them follow him to the slaughter-house. I was anxious to know how this was brought about; and I said to the man, 'My friend, how did you manage to induce those pigs to follow you here?' 'Oh! did you not see?' said the man. 'I had a basket of beans under my arm; and I dropped a few as I came along, and so they followed me.' 'Yes,' said the preacher, 'and I thought, so it is; the devil has his basket of beans under his arm, and he drops them as he goes along, and what multitudes he induces to follow him to an everlasting slaughter-house! Yes, friends, and all your broad and crowded thoroughfares are strewn with the beans of the devil.' "

"Mother! Her love and mindfulness have never failed me. I am as sure to have them as I am to have the sunshine, air to breathe, or God's mercy exercised toward me." --Frances E. Willard.

● Lord, please fill my mouth
With worthwhile stuff.
And nudge me when I've said enough.

--An old Negro prayer.

God can, by one and the same means, comfort his servants and terrify his enemies. The resurrection of Christ is a subject of terror to the servants of sin and a subject of consolation to the sons of God; because it is the proof of the resurrection of both, the one to shame and everlasting contempt--the other to eternal glory and joy.

--Adam Clarke
